

EDUCATION - ELEMENTARY

Teacher education students take three types of courses at Northeast Community College. General courses are required of all associate of arts degree candidates and promote general knowledge. Subject courses help students learn the subjects they will be teaching. For an understanding of the teaching profession, students take professional education courses that instruct students how to teach. Teacher education students have opportunities for practical experience in elementary classrooms while completing course work. To become an elementary teacher, students may complete a two-year liberal arts program at Northeast and then transfer credits to a four-year college offering the bachelor's degree in teacher education. Employers include K-6, and in some cases K-8, school systems, correctional institutions, hospitals, vocational services, and community organizations.

Students should work closely with Northeast advisors and transfer colleges in planning specific course schedules because requirements vary, depending on the choice of transfer.

Schools require a background check prior to employment. Students will be required to submit a background check prior to completing any classroom field experience. Individuals with a criminal record may not be eligible for employment as an educator. Please check with advisor.
